Dear Colleague,

Greetings!

In advance of the International Stroke Conference in Los Angeles, CA, the AANS/CNS Joint Cerebrovascular Section Annual Meeting continues its consistent commitment to excellence in the neurosciences and patient care, and growing collaborations in cerebrovascular treatment.

To that end, this year's two-day meeting will provide outstanding programming across a wide range of topics. Headlining the educational tracks are session blocks dedicated to treatment of giant intracranial aneurysms, the future of cerebrovascular education, vascular malformation and the next frontiers in acute stroke intervention.

In addition to scientific sessions, specific meeting highlights include the popular annual Luessenhop Lecture, this year given by Dr. Colin Derdeyn as well as the debut of the Ralph G. Dacey, Jr. Medal for Outstanding Cerebrovascular Research. Beyond featured sessions, attendees will have plenty of opportunities to interact with industry through several sponsored symposia, as well as in the Exhibit Hall. And, just to ensure a little respite from such an ambitious agenda, the program committee has planned the Taste of Los Angeles reception with a myriad of indulgences for your enjoyment.

As the neuroscience field continues to evolve in ways that significantly impact medicine as well as patient care, it is more important than ever that we nurture our opportunities for partnership and collaboration. Through our collective clinical and institutional knowledge, as well as our mutual commitment to and passion for advancement of treatments that can revolutionize the quality of cerebrovascular care, we are endowed with a great responsibility. We trust this meeting will provide opportunities to glean more insights and create new intersections of thought that will further inspire us to carry out our respective missions, and meet our full potential as difference-makers in the neurosciences.

See you in Los Angeles!

Sincerely,

Brian Jankowitz, MD
CV Section Program Chair

Ricardo Hanel, MD
SNIS Program Chair
